For release June 5, 2006

Free public forum: The Faces of Pain in Childhood

Vancouver, B.C. – As part of the 7th International Symposium on Pediatric Pain, BC Children's Hospital is hosting a free public forum: The Faces of Pain in Childhood. Monday, June 26, 7 – 9 p.m. in the Chan Auditorium of the Child & Family Research Institute (At the corner of Oak St. and 28th Ave., on the BC Children's Hospital site.)

This public forum will bring to life the impact that pain can have on the lives of children and teens. Presentations include a guest lecture, a documentary screening, and an opportunity for questions. Hear presentations from the professionals at BC Children's Integrated Pain Service, plus renowned guest speaker Dr. Neil Schechter, Pain Relief Program Director from Connecticut Children's Medical Centre. A panel including former patients with experience managing pain will offer first hand information. Translation into Punjabi and Cantonese will be available for the question period.

No registration required. Space is limited.

Please visit www.ispp2006.com for information about the Public Forum and the 7th International Symposium on Pediatric Pain in Vancouver from June 25 - 29.
